Development Application No. 2005/2046 proposes to demolish the building at 5-9 Roslyn Street, Kings Cross and replace it with a four-level building with a single restaurant at street level and commercial offices above. The fate of this 124-year-old building and the historic streetscape of Roslyn Street – with its string of small, unique retailers and eating/drinking places at the top end – will be decided by the City of Sydney Council in the next week.
